Report of Schools for 1896.

DISTRICT NO. 1.

The two terms in this district, consisting of eighteen weeks, were taught by Mrs. Agnes D. Clark. The scholars showed un interest in their books, and their instruction seemed to be thorough.

DISTRICT NO. 2.

The spring term of eight weeks was taught by Miss Alice A. Wells. The fall term of eleven weeks by Mrs. Lettie G. Colburn. Both terms were successful and marked progress was made. This school, tho small in number, ranks with the best in town.

DISTRICT NO. 4.

The two terms of this school, consisting of nineteen weeks, were taught by Miss M. Nellie Greene of Rockland, Mass. Miss Greene came well recommended, being a graduate of the Rockland, Mass., high school and also of the Quincy, Mass., training school. 'Tho' she introduced methods new to the school, she proved herself well qualified to teach, for the improvement in this school was very marked and rapid progress made.

DISTRICT No. 5.

The spring and fall terms of eighteen weeks were taught by Mrs. Annie C. Brown. The pupils worked hard and the result shows what study can do. Mrs. Brown can look with satisfaction on her work for 1896.

DISTRICT No. 7.

One term of ten weeks was taught by Miss Viola Elliott. This was Miss Elliott's first school and the results were as good as could be expected.

DISTRICT No. 8.

A term of seven weeks was taught by Miss Katie E. Lary. This is a small school and there seemed to be but little interest. Some progress was made.

DISTRICT No. 9.

Miss Marion Morse taught the spring term of seven weeks. Miss Morse is an experienced teacher and under her instruction good results were obtained. The fall term of eleven weeks was taught by Miss Jennie Muzzey. Miss Muzzey seems to know how to teach and we are satisfied with the work done.

DISTRICT No. 10.

Spring term of seven weeks was taught by Miss Lola Follansbee. The school showed some improvement. Miss Ada Kidder taught the fall term of eleven weeks. Hard work was the motto of this school and the instruction was thorough. The pupils have no reason to be ashamed of the results.

We have tried for the past year to conduct the schools with economy and in the interest of the pupils. With but little more money appropriated we have employed as good a class of teachers and added twenty-two weeks of school to the several districts.

Altho there has been some dissatisfaction among the parents, as well as the scholars, we believe that if the fathers and mothers would take more interest in the schools and support the teachers in their efforts to instruct their children, much good would result from it and the schools be very much benefited. Some complaints have been made of new methods introduced in the schoolroom. We, who attended school forty or fifty years ago, look back with pride upon those days. Many say the schools were better then, and the pupils advanced more rapidly in their studies than they do at the present day. Be that as it may, those days are past and we must accept the methods of the present be they better or worse.

Supposing there is some little thing of which you do not quite approve or your children make complaint, is that a just reason why you should allow them to stay at home when they please, or withdraw them from the schoolroom? If you should give your boys or girls some task to perform and they idled away the time and the task was left undone, would that be any excuse why they should be allowed to do nothing?

The school is a place of work, and to make any advancement, the pupils must study. Is the teacher to blame for insisting that the lessons should be thoroughly learned, and that good order should prevail in the schoolroom?

The scholars must help themselves if they expect or wish to advance in their studies. It does not all depend upon the teacher. Good schools mean that there be competent teachers, studious scholars and parents who are anxious to give their children all the education possible. You and I have but a few more years to remain here; our boys and girls will soon take our places. They will be leaders or they will be led. It depends upon how well they are qualified to take their places in the affairs of life. Let us be just to our boys and girls.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN N. KINNE.

ROLL OF PERFECT ATTENDANCE.
